

TRANSITING SATURN SEXTILE NATAL MARS

Saturn, if in retrograde, is much more favourable than while in its direct motion. Saturn always suggests hard work but also builds solid foundations over time. Saturn restricts and holds back progress and makes sure that you are doing each step correctly, one at a time. Although while in retrograde, Saturn's energies are much more easily released in a positive manner.

Mars on the other hand is all about push and aggressive action. You can then imagine when the two forces meet as they somewhat working against each other.

Check the houses involved as these houses will speak directly of the areas of life involved.

The sextile implies opportunity and is considered a favourable aspect to have at any given time. Of course, you will also have to check the rest of the chart to see how this applies to you personally.

Opportunities are at hand although some delays can be expected when it comes to professional applications and the drive needed to accomplish such tasks. This is likely a positive time to push ahead and make some progress especially if you have felt held up in the recent past with this endeavor.

Saturn sextile Natal Mars suggests that you use your somewhat harnessed energy creatively and make things happen. You may have some assistance from those in authority but be sure not to miss any steps along the way. This is an opportunity. Take advantage of it.
