

TRANSITING SATURN IN OPPOSITION TO NATAL SATURN

The opposition of transiting Saturn to its natal position occurs around the age 74. At the same time, we are also amid our Nodal Return. This can be an important time in life for finding one's path and learning from important life lessons up to this point in life.

Transiting Saturn Opposition Natal Saturn is a time to reassess and reflect on our life's path, and we are pushed to take responsibility for much of how our lives have developed thus far. This can be a time of building structure and create growth, moving us towards our destiny or the way forward, at least, for the current time frame and path.

We are now at a mature stage in life, have met many challenges and realized that we are stronger than we might otherwise have thought previously. How else did we get this far?

In many ways we did this on our own although when we speak of the opposition (Saturn to Saturn). We can now listen to advice from others before making decisions that will affect the rest of our time on earth. We may find those that we deem as authority figures and that are reliable connections can be of assistance to us.

This can be the time to make a commitment to future growth and if we have felt off our path, this is the time to find where our path should be. At around the age of 72, we experienced the return of Jupiter to its original position and this placement, which is often a growth and expansive period, can enhance where we are heading now.

Each of us entering this timeframe of our lives will have opportunities, although not often seen in this aspect, to reflect and make significant changes, knowing that we oversee our lives and our attitudes.

We will need to check the house where our Natal Saturn is found and the house that Transiting Saturn now occupies to get a clearer picture of what potential lies ahead. At the same time, look at the aspects to the natal Saturn along with other aspects currently activating this and other parts of the chart.

The Nodal positioning by sign and house will give deeper insight as to what this time in life is about and what direction we might want to take. Some will know they are on path at this time and will not need to make choices on direction and much of this will be defined by the natal potential found within the birth chart.

Oppositions are said to be challenging but much depends on our view of what is taking place and how much attention we give to those that are speaking to us. Take their advice and do not be offended. Listen carefully to what is being provided to you and get beneath the surface on any issue.